Cyber Liability – What Every Agent Should Know

Cybercrime has grown seventeen times since 2009 with no slowdown in sight. All businesses, including Insurance Agents, which collect private information about their clients, must comply with State and/or Federal Notification Laws. These notification requirements can cost small businesses on average over $200,000 and larger businesses can be in the millions. Since this is also a rapidly growing exposure, it is difficult for businesses to understand the definition of private information, how to protect it and how to comply with Notification Laws. This course will provide agents with an understanding of the current exposures with cyber risks and ways to protect themselves and their clients.
